

IPES brings together leading police researchers and practitioners to facilitate cross-cultural, international, and interdisciplinary exchanges for the enrichment of the policing profession. It encourages dynamic discussions and writing on challenging topics of contemporary importance through an array of initiatives, including conferences and publications. The International Police Executive Symposium (IPES) was awarded special consultative status with the United Nations in 2011. For more information, please visit <http://www.ipes.info/>.

Advances in Police Theory and Practice Series

Presenting volumes that focus on the nexus between research and practice, this SERIES is geared toward those practitioners and academics seeking to implement the latest innovations in policing from across the world. This series draws from an international community of experts who examine who the police are, what they do, and how they maintain order, administer laws, and serve their communities.

IPES CRC Press Co-Publication Series

This SERIES focuses on books based on the carefully selected papers presented at the meetings of IPES and papers submitted to Police Practice and Research: An International Journal (PPR) but considered more suitable as book chapters.

Interviews with Global Leaders in Policing, Courts and Prisons Series

The focus of this SERIES is to obtain a better understanding of global challenges that criminal justice leaders face and of the successes that they achieve while functioning in an increasingly interconnected and democratized world. The books in the SERIES are entitled, Trends in Policing, Trends in the Judiciary, Trends in Legal Advocacy and Trends in Corrections.

About Trends in Policing, Robert Reiner, Professor Emeritus, London School of Economics, says:

"A resource of immense value to academic analysts of policing philosophies, leadership, contemporary change, and likely futures, as well as to policy-makers and practitioners who wish to have a sense of where the leaders in their field have come from and are going."

Police Practice & Research an International Journal (PPR) Is affiliated with the International Police Executive Symposium (IPES) www.ipes.info. PPR is a peer-reviewed, international journal that presents current and innovative academic police research as well as operational and administrative police practices from around the world. Manuscripts are sought from practitioners, researchers and others interested in developments in policing, analysis of public order, and the state of safety as it affects the quality of life everywhere.
